Re: WT Docket 11-65

Dear Chairman Genachowski:

Residents of Michigan along with our entire country are reliant on the Internet more than ever before. From job applications to online classes, it is necessary to have high-speed broadband access just to keep up with the demands of our changing world. Ensuring this resource is available everywhere is vital to the lives of the people, in Michigan.

Currently, there are several areas in our state that have either limited or no access to the high speed broadband Internet, but with the proposed AT&T- T-Mobile merger the entire state of Michigan will be able to receive the same level of service as any other place in the nation.

This merger will afford consumers greater productivity through use of online resources and telecommunications, reliable mobile broadband so residents can have remote medical monitoring wherever they are, access to the latest applications to navigate and explore our cities and the complete ability to participate in the advances happening online everyday.

Our interest and support of the merger between AT&T and T-Mobile is because we believe it will make a difference in people's daily lives. This will bring opportunity to more people in Michigan and keep our citizens connected to the world.

Respectfully yours,
